

Mike Oliver has over 30 years experience in senior financial and general management positions across industries from coal mining to internet gaming. He received his MBA from the Katz School of Business at the University of Pittsburgh and also attended the Duquesne University School of Law. He is a CPA although currently inactive after being out of the country.

He has just completed a one year project, as Global Project Leader on an ERP implementation, including extensive IFRS involvement. His home office, and residence, was Vienna Austria; but had offices in Cologne, Germany; Delhi, India; Vancouver, Canada; and various locations in the USA so he was able to rack up 150,000 air miles over the 12 months.

Mike retained Paul as a sub-contractor on the assignment for two weeks in Vienna to draft the client's first Chart of Accounts Manual, which was IFRS compliant.

Mike will address IFRS from a "Boots on the Ground" implementation perspective.
